Nations May Co-Operate.

Washington, November 3.—Reports from John Lind concerning his recent conferences in Vera Cruz with the Russian, German and Norwegian ministers to Mexico conveyed the impression to President Wilson to-day that there was a disposition on the part of those diplomats to co-operate with the United States in plans for solving the Mexican situation.

No announcement was made here as to any future policy. Administration officials did take occasion, however, to say that published stories forecasting aimed intervention were not justified at this time; that there was nothing in the situation, so far as the Washington administration was concerned, to warrant such an assumption

The arrival of Roberto V. Pesquiera. an emissary from General Carranza, the Constitutionalist chief, raised the ques-tion of whether the Washington government would receive representations from the Constitutionalists. President Wilson made it clear that officially the government could not re-ceive any formal representations, but that in some way or other the informa-tion which the Constitutionalists desire to lay before the American gov-trament would be received.

Senator Bacon was speaking of a letter read into the record by Senator Bristow, who said he had received it from "a friend of thirty years' standing" in Mexico. The writer urged that the United States keep hands off and allow Mexican factions to fight out their differences, condemned the neutrality policy which keeps "thousands of American soldiers on the Mexican border," and declared that if the United of American soldiers on the Mexican border," and declared that if the United States intervened by military force it would mean "only conquest and the acquisition of Mexican territory by the loss of hundreds of lives and hundreds of millions of money."

"I think I can assure the Senate," said Senator Bacon, "that nothing is further from the thoughts of the people or of officials of the United States than the conquest or acquisition of Mexican territory. The time has not yet come when this matter may be properly discussed, but the time is not far distant when we must discuss it. I can give the assurance that the matter is having the most careful and conscientious consideration, and that whatever may consideration, and that whatever may be done will meet the approval of the American Congress and the American

| Special to The Times-Dispatch, 1 Notfolk, Va., November 3.-With only the verdict of the voters to decide the contest. Norfolk's bitterest campaign for municipal and legislative offices virtually closed to-

Norfolk's bitterest campaign for municipal and legislative offices virtually closed tonight. Both sides predicted victory, but the organization forces, through their leader, James V. Trehy, appeared more confident. The Citizens' party leaders declared they would elect their ticket, but declined to give fligures. The most conservative estimate, however, does not give the Citizens' party more than two of the six candidates for municipal offices, and predict the election of the organization candidates for the Legislature.

Citizens' party advocates concede the election oi James V. Trehy as cierk of the courts, and Edward J. Doran as Commissioner of the Revenue. They believe they have a fighting chance to elect C. L. Hudgins as city sergeant over John F. Lawler: P. C. Stanworth city treasurer to succeed B. Gray Tunstall, and also claim they will win with O. L. Shackledford for Commonwealth's attorney. They are not making any predictions as to the office of city collector. J. Bunyan Jones, their candidate, is weak with his own party, while Edward J. Gorman, who argued badly from the start, has gained considerable strength lately.

John G. Tilton also a weak starter, finished with a rush, and his enemies of a week ago to-night are predicting his election. John F. Lawler, because of his opposition to giving office to some supporters of the organization, is being opposed by men who will support every other man on the ticket. Lawler, heaving classes.

James V. Trehy closed the campaign to-night with a speech in his home ward. First, to 2009 people, Daniel Coleman, member of the Legislature at the last session, also spoke. He denied that Trehy ever headed a lotby in Richmond to defeat any kind of legislation as charged by Citizens' party corntors.

The most significant feature of the campaign was the statement of two Protestant ministers who, heretofore opposed to the organization, declared their intention of voting for its candidates. They declared they intended to vote for these candidates because of the attempts of parties working in the interest of the Clizens' party to inject religion in the campaign.

It is officially announced also that the German minister, the Russian minister and the minister from Sweden at Mexico City and at Vera Cruz seek information from Special Envoy Lind, but it was reiterated strongly to-day by White House authorities that there would be no joint "action" as to Mexico between the United States and the foreign powers.
